› Travellers told to clear barricades

TRAVELLERS at Dale Farm in Essex were last night urged to take down barricades and stop non-residents from protesting, in line with a court order. The heavily barricaded main gate to the site is expected to be opened today to allow in a school bus to pick up children. Residents have also agreed to admit a planning inspector on to the site. However, non-traveller protesters insisted the barricades will remain in place. Basildon council gave a plot-by-plot breakdown of how they plan to dismantle the site, as required by the court injunction which has delayed the clearance of the 51 plots until Friday.
